The English also seem bent upon continuing the war, despite the fact that two lords make beautiful peace speeches. Of course, from India come reports which should place a damper upon the war spirit of the English, but we must wait to see if these reports are true. At any rate, England has an Achilles' heet, and when I say this I don't think of India alone.

"The Bussian exar and his government also want to continue the war, and the oft-announced revolution keeps people waiting. The odd feature of the situation is that more of these nations notice that they are sacrificing them-selves for England. In short, it does

Germany Must Pight

"Germany cannot sheath her sword Certainly, there is no German who would not hail with joy the moment when this horrible spilling of blood shall have come to an end. But we are not to blame for the future spilling of blood. They plunged us into this war and now they oblige us to continue it. Can Ger-many make peace overtures? Such over-tures would be interpreted as a sign of weakhess, and the entire hostile press would shout: 'Germany can't go any further and has to beg for peace.' We are obliged, therefore, to continue fight ing until our antagonists are convinced of their defeat, which today they do not yet believe.

"Germany must not show that she is tired of the war, and what is more we are not tired of the war. The situation is constantly improving for us. Even the road to the Orient is now open. For us it is not a question of seeing this thing through, of persevering, but of being victorious."

The Russian army still had "human material," he said, but the military value of this mate rial is considerably lower than that of the Russian soldiers during the first year of the war. The broth is getting thinner. For that reason it is pure swindle when the Entente press speaks of the organization of new Russian armies. With the reserves who are now being called in, the Russians can do no more than fill up the organizations already existing. New armies can not be formed of them The lack of officers, too, would prevent this, and this problem must be pressing indeed when they make officers out of young students. Russ Have Ammunition

"Of ammunition they have enough; Japan, especially, has furnished a great deal. During the beavy fighting in July and August, the Russians may have oc-casionally been a little short of ammunition, but to give this as the reason for their defeats is merely a lame excuse. At all important points where decisive actions took place they had enough ammunition. In Kowno we found whole mountains of ammunition, and in Kowmo especially it was shown that the defeats the Russians were due to other eauses. Its location alone made Kowno one of the strongest of fortresses, and when as army surrenders such a position without holding it to the limit of endurance, it becomes clear that that army is demoralized. It does not seem that the morale of the Russian army has improved since then. Our soldiers take prisoners of war who fall upon their captors' necks and with tears in their eyes thank them for having been captured.

Offensive Not Probable

To the question whether or not he which is rightfully thought it new Russian offensive likely, Jokes Over Statue l'ield Marshal von Hindenburg replied; "A new Russian offensive is not prob-n'de, but they may try one neverthe-less. LAND COMMISSIONER TUCKER MAY RETIRE

Relations Between Governor and Subordinate Known To Be Strained: Latter Silent

The center of interest at the Capitol just now is the land commissioner's of fice. That something is being brewed for Joshua D. Tucker, who for so many years has held that post, is generally conceded in the halls and rooms of the Capitol; but no one, not even Governor Pinkham, appears to know, or will confess to knowing just what that something is,

Certain it is, however, that the relations, official and otherwise, between the thief executive and the commission er of lands, are strained to the snap ping point, and there are not lacking those who Ansist that the office of the euce of The Associated Press) - Field subordinate will be vacant before the end of his term, March 3, next. ty. Later, however, he said:
'While I am not prepared to speak of this matter at present, I offer a bit shal, "still want Alsace-Lorraine, when of advice to all interested. Look up

The Governor positively declined to say whether he had received Mr. Tucker's resignation, dodging that question with the statement that "I have not seen Mr. Tucker since last Friday. He is at home, sick, I believe. 'Undated' Resignation Hinted

It is currently reported in the Cap itof offices that every member of the territorial cabinet was requested to tender an "undated" resignation to the Governor before his appointment was made out. If this report be true, then Tucker's resignation is in the hands of the Governor, and all that is legally necessary, should be desire to drop the commissioner, is to accept the undated resignation. On the other hand is the fact that Tucker is closely allied with powerful interests in the Territory, and has a host of good friends, who have backed fint up in the past and it is believed will stand with him now.

WASHINGTON, December 20.-Sec retary Duniels of the Navy admitted today that twelve submarines which should have passed their final inspec tion tests from a year to two years ago have not yet been brought up to the specifications. Eight are of the K class and four of the L series.

While the K boats all passed the preliminary inspection and have been in commission for nearly a year,during which time they have made a trip through the Panama Canal, the nav epartment has refused to approve them efinitely because of defects that have eveloped in service.

The four L bonts recently completed by the Electric Boat Company failed pass the preliminary inspection some weeks ago and have been turned back to the builders. Atter Miss Spring pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor charge, of furious or heedless driving, Attorney Tl. mpson made an elaborate statement to the court. He said that Miss Spring was driving a small Buick car, with the wheel at the left, that it was raining and the shield of the machine was blurred on that account. Beyond the country Club, in the Nuuanu road to the Pali, a machine approached the car which was being driven by Miss Spring and in which Doctor Pedon was her sole companion. The powerful lights of the approaching machine blinded those in the Buick. As Miss Spring felt a slight jar or tremor in the body of her machine she remarked to Doctor Pedon that they must have hit a rut in the road. This was the first Miss Spring or her coldpanion knew, said Attorney Thompson, of the accident which, a few days later, resulted in the death of Mrs. George Hermann Moore in The Queen's Hospital, Mrs. Moore being the woman injured at the time and who remained unconscious until her death. Mr. Thompson said that Mrs. Moore showed only a slight abrasion on her left hip. She had certainly not been run over by the machine, he claimed, for there were no signs on her body or clothing of anything of the kind. Judge Dole's lecture was a notable one. His topic, 'The Law of Military Service," he developed from both its legal and moral aspects, and from the point of view of both the jurist and patriot. He was attentively listened to by a large audience, among peared in the case for Miss Spring, which were many army and navy men. Cause Mu t Be Just

"If it is the inherent right of gov. ernments to compel military service, he said, after reviewing the moral principles which were part of that inherent right, "it follows that it is the duty of the citizen to respond cheerfully to the demand. It is not only his duty but it is his privilege, and it follows further that, with this vast power over the freedom of the citizen, the esponsibility is upon the government to see that the citizen shall not be called out to exercise the duties of a soldier in any cause that is not a just and honorable one.

"We do not find here a word of calousy of other nations, not a word of hostility to other governments. The blessings of freedom and security which it provides, logically make clear the duty of the citisen to support it in its enterprises for the maintenance of such blessings.

"This conclusion raises incidentally the difficult question as to Quakers and others to whom the doctrine of non resistance is regarded as a moral principle to be observed at all costs. These people have made the government of the United States considerable trouble at one time or another from their refusal to perform their share of the hazardous work, or supporting their government as soldiers. My impression is that this sentiment is dying out. Let us hope

GARRISON PLEADS FOR DEVELOPMENT OF ARMY

On Course Followed

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) WASHINGTON, January 6-A vigorous argument on behalf of the ad ministration's plan for army expansion and development was presented today before the house comm tree on military affairs by Secretary of War Garrison, He made a formal argument for the plan, detailing the figures the administration suggests. "The integrity of the existence of the nation may lep ad on what is done now," said Mr. Garrison. "We have a great opportunity which may be lost unless a wise and practical policy is the result of the consideration and action of Congress." Garrison's talk developed no definite opposit on to the army expansion scheme. Congressman Kahn of California, a member of the committee, asked the secretary if the Monroe Doc
